SCOTT'S ALL*STARS

"Where Excellence is Expected"

Greetings Scott's All*Stars supporters,

It is with great pleasure that I introduce you to Scott's All*Stars. Scott's All*Stars program is an academic/basketball program for students who have the potential to attend college and play basketball at the college level. Students must have an 80 GPA, no discipline problems, and perform community service activities. We teach life skills that will prepare them to be successful students and productive citizens. Our mission is "to teach basketball and life skills to young men who have the potential academically and athletically to play basketball on the college level". Our vision is to remain with our team members until they graduate from high school by placing them in a mentoring program that will continue to motivate them to reach their academic, athletic and community goals.

We are very proud of our team's progress this year and the community support we received. Without supportive parents and community supporters this program would not be as successful. Scott's All*Stars' theme for our award ceremony this year is "Excellence Demands High Expectations". One thing that parents and players have noticed this year is that because we expect excellence, there were several expectations and demands on kids in our program. Our program is unique in that we require community service from our players. This ensures they develop strong character. We mandate that our kids be respectful and academically sound. Furthermore, we instill in our kids the expectation that they will graduate from college. Being an All*Star is very demanding, but worth it! Scott's All*Stars is committed to helping children academically and athletically, but it requires a major commitment from players and parents. Our parents and players commit to this program for six months and once they become "All*Stars", they are always "All*Stars". During the off season, we continue to mentor our kids with monthly community service and mentoring activities.

When I started this program in January of 2010, I couldn't imagine it would grow as quickly and become as successful as it has over the last two years. In only our second season, we have expanded from helping twelve fourth-grade kids to helping over forty kids in grades ranging from 4th-11th. We are proud that we are providing more kids with a vision to attend and graduate from college. We truly feel that Scott's All*Stars will have an epic impact on kids graduating college in this area on academic and/or athletic scholarships. I personally guarantee that all kids who are in our program from elementary to high school will receive one or more college scholarships. The academic behaviors they learn in our program will ensure college success.

Thanks again to everyone who has contributed in some way to our program. Your contribution, no matter the size, is always appreciated!

Best wishes,

Marcus Scott, IV
Scott's All*Stars
President

HISTORY

The vision for Scott's All*Stars began when Marcus Scott, IV noticed there were no basketball programs designed for children his son's age in the Hinesville area. While many thought starting a 10 and under AAU basketball program was a great idea, no one wanted to commit the time and effort required to start this much needed program. Mr. Scott was determined that his son, Marcus Scott, V, and other kids would not have to wait until they got to high school to face the level of competition that kids 10 and under in the North Georgia area were facing in middle school. Marcus Scott started doing research so he could discover the best way to implement such a program.

During his research, Mr. Scott realized that while AAU was a great way for kids to gain basketball exposure, it lacked one essential piece - an academic component. Knowing that by not striving for academic excellence along with athletic development, players would have a false sense of what was necessary for success in life. Using this as his foundation, Mr. Scott designed a program which not only requires the players to have passing grades, but to maintain an 80 average. Scott's All*Stars was created not to be a basketball program, but an academic program that incorporates basketball training and exposure, while ensuring students are exhibiting academic excellence. Mr. Scott also wanted the players to always feel a need to give back to the community. This prompted him to add a community service element to his program.

Mr. Scott's vision became a reality on January 15, 2010, when The Scott's All*Stars program held its first tryouts conducted by the president Marcus Scott, IV, head coach Daryl West and assistant coaches Khari Collins and Kevin Corwick. The program has grown from 12 young men in its first year to four teams of over 40 in the current year – a testament to the commitment of its founder and coaching staff, the hard work of its players, and the support of its parents.

Scott's All*Stars continues its pursuit of academic and athletic distinction by teaching players that average is below average and excellence is what is expected. Attending college is a goal that is engrained into the young men at an early age and cultivated by Scott's All*Stars. Mr. Scott feels that the earlier kids start thinking about college, the more likely they will attend college. This is why on every road trip, players are given the opportunity to visit local universities. Scott's All*Stars' players have visited colleges literally around the world, ranging from Georgia to New York to California. It is during college trips that students gain lifelong experiences that are unforgettable.

Scott's All*Stars is not a basketball program, but an academic program that incorporates basketball training and exposure, while ensuring students are exhibiting academic excellence. Scott All*Stars' coaches are committed to working with players until they graduate from high school and attend college. The team's goal is for all players to receive college scholarships for academics, basketball, or both! Scott's All*Stars is committed to making sure all kids who remain in the program from elementary to high school graduation receive college scholarships. All players are expected to not only attend college, but graduate from a four-year college. Mr. Scott and his staff will continue to provide academic assistance until they graduate from high school and in college, if necessary.

In its first year, Scott's All*Stars quickly became a premier program with many established organizations mimicking the blueprint that has made Scott's All*Stars successful. The team competed in many tournaments last year and this year, winning three tournaments and making it to the second round of Nationals. Though this was the first year with middle and high school student-athletes, Scott's All*Stars teams played in over seventy games! Even given the large number of players, the team exceeded its required cumulative team GPA!
